Member of the year: Barbara Sharp

The member of the year is someone who has contributed to most of the activities of the group, has gone out of their way to assist fellow members and visitors, assisted with fundraising or fundraising ideas and regularly attended meetings. Nominations are made by the current committee by secret ballot. The awardee of the previous year and the current president are not eligible. The person who has received the highest number of nominations will be our member of the year.

Barbara was nominated principally for her dedication to keeping the Lorraine Taylor Research Room open. As the current research room manager she has done more than her fair share of duty in order to keep the doors open. She compiles the roster of volunteers, and quietly fills in the days when no one else is available to volunteer. You find her most Tuesdays and many Saturdays welcoming members and the general public. Her warm smile and great attitude, enthusiasm and willingness to give it a try are an asset to our group. Barbara is a tireless indexer for the Casey Cardinia Combined Index and has become an important member of the processing/cataloguing team. Her research and writing skills are visible in stories in Spreading Branches and on our cemetery tours. Barbara helps out at cemetery walks and heritage festivals, supports our Facebook page with regular comments, supports the coffee catch up chats and lunches, and very rarely misses a committee or general meeting.

Our second nominee is our multi-hat wearing treasurer Lynne. Not because she has undoubtedly done a great job keeping us financially stable, she also got her head around the Bunnings mobile payment system for our first sausage sizzle at Clyde North. Lynne then took us another step further into the digital world with the introduction of the Square payment system.

Hat number two are her digital skills that keep our NWFHG and the Casey Cardinia Remembers websites and our Facebook page up and running. For any work needed with our computers we count on Lynne to just 'fix it'. Her digital knowhow is evident in the processing/cataloguing team. We have all learnt something from Lynne's archive experience in her quiet way of guiding us in writing or researching. She was the instigator of our successful application for participation in the Collections Community Resilience Project run by the Australian Museums and Galleries Association (AMaGA) Victoria.

Lynne is also an amazing ambassador for our group. Her positive attitude and work ethic is what is driving us forward. She is involved in everything from our writing group to the cemetery walk and book, heritage days, meetings and social gatherings. She shares her knowledge in person when on duty in the room, with replies to comments on facebook and website or via research queries (that's hat number three). Her loyalty and commitment to the group and the committee over many years is inspiring.

This year we awarded the 2022-2023 Member of the Year to Barbara Sharp. Congratulations!

President's report

As I write this report we are two weeks away from our first walk at Dandenong Community Cemetery. The sun is shining and I'm trying not to have a nanny nap. I was up at 6.15 am or 'O dark 30' this morning to do a radio interview for ABC Melbourne Breakfast with Sammy J. This came about because the previous week Lyne McGregor and I did an interview at the cemetery with the Star Newspaper Group. The digital edition of the newspaper was online on Monday morning and the ABC contacted us on the next day as they had read the story and wanted to talk to us. So, early to bed, set the alarm, and it seemed to be over in a blink. Sad to say, I can't remember much about it, but they seemed happy at the radio station.

Our sausage sizzle team led by Bob had a very successful day at Bunnings in Clyde North on 7 October. Thank you to everyone who helped out. September and October were also great months for excitement in the research room. Barbara did the happy dance when she solved one of her brick walls and found an elusive Catholic marriage in Ireland. Sometimes you need to look 'next door', the couple came from County Clare but married in Limerick. We had a visitor come in specifically to use our microfiche – they are still a great resource. One Saturday we had a full house of visitors and members. It was like the drought had broken after the sparse days post Covid.

Our guest speakers have been wonderful. At our AGM in August Patrick Ferry gave an enthralling talk on the Melbourne socialite and the Turkish diplomat, based on the resources at the National Archives Victoria. In September, Elizabeth Fraser, president of the Berwick-Pakenham Historical Society, gave a very interesting talk about the history of her home 'Goronga' and its magnificent garden. It was a fitting way to end our Saturday meetings for the year and we thank L'Arte Central Café for hosting us in their training room over the winter months and serving yummy lunches many of us have enjoyed before the meetings. The social chatter is always interesting and fun.

From October we were back to our summer format on Wednesday nights. We had a great turn up to hear Lance McDermott and his presentation about the Naval Graves project and their objective to record all naval graves in Australia. I am looking forward to the November meeting when Val Barnett and our processing team will be demonstrating the ease of digitising your photos and postcards using our two scanners.

Heather Arnold and I have only a couple of history talks left at Koo Wee Rup this year. They have been well attended and enjoyable for all. Eileen is talking to a local community group at the end of October – her topic is the history of our local schools.

The past year has had its ups and downs and I'm looking forward to our Christmas meeting, which is always fun when Kerryn is in charge. Who will forget the Cinderella panto last year? Can she come up with something better?

In 2024 our summer meetings will change to the third Wednesday of the month, so we look forward to seeing everyone at 7.30 pm on Wednesday, 21 February.

Thank you to the committee for all the support they gave me this year. I wish all our members a Merry Christmas and a safe New Year. We hope you join us celebrating our 35th birthday in May 2024.

Pastor Laurie Dyer

Laurence Urban Dyer was born on 16 August 1915. His parents, Urban Yeoland Dyer and Elsie Louise nee Dyer, had married in 1914. Urban was a cabinetmaker and the family lived in Fitzroy, Preston and Northcote until the family moved to Trafalgar in 1931 and then to Johnsonville where Urban ran the post office.¹ The family had grown to six by this time and Laurie had a brother and two sisters. While his father worked, Laurie worked on the farm for the four years they were there.

The next move was in 1936 to 'Taralea' in Longwarry North and Laurie ran a dairy farm. In 1938 he was baptised in the Tarago River which marked the start of his religious life. From 1939-42 he lived at 'Bethal', a dairy farm in Dandenong. He loved farming, especially Jersey cows.

In 1942 Laurie studied at the Melbourne Bible Institute and in July 1944 completed the Local Preachers exam for the Methodist Church at Dandenong and was duly appointed the Methodist Children's Missioner.² He believed it was his calling to present the Saviour to young people in schools, hospitals, and anywhere else they may be. In his report that year he writes that he taught 1,250 children and visited 21 State Schools. He travelled about 100 miles a week on his bicycle, as well as using trains and buses. He visited the Mount Eliza hospital, The Alfred, Prince Henry's, Bethesda, Epworth, the Children's, and the Austin on a regular basis. He also attended Sunday School anniversaries.³

The Methodist Church magazine, The Spectator, has an article about the appointment of a Children's Missioner. The Church had never had one before and were worried about the additional financial burden and how the position would be fulfilled, but they received very favourable comments backed up by donations to keep the work going. One teacher wrote how greatly impressed she was with Mr Dyer and his effectiveness as a teacher.

In 1945 Laurie was teaching religious instruction (RI) to 3,500 children, visiting 30 State Schools, and 300 children in hospitals. He rode his bicycle 500 to 600 miles in the month in all weather. Laurie went to three Beach Missions at Frankston, Mordialloc and Altona in January. He spent a fortnight in Bendigo at the invitation of Rev G Wilson and attended a Special Children's Church in Narre Warren.⁴

Bob Street, a teacher at Narre Warren North Primary School, said, "Laurie Dyer would travel to Narre Warren North on his enormously cluttered bicycle all the way from Dandenong every fortnight to teach the children about religion and the Bible."⁵ Max Thomson in his book Little Hills writes, "He travelled by bicycle for eight years and what he carried with him had to be seen to be believed. Flannel-graph board, lantern slide projector and screen, object lesson equipment and occasionally a portable organ."⁶ Max Thomson also says his work was exemplary and his influence on young people had very beneficial effects.

The Dandenong Journal launched an appeal in November 1945 to help get Pastor Laurie Dyer a car.⁷

Each year he taught more and more children. In 1946 he reported that he had reached 5,000 children between the ages of four and sixteen. He attended two hundred and fifty Sunday School anniversaries and was booked out for the next year with them. He was hugely popular and says he never missed one class in the year.

Finally in 1948 the Home Mission Department provided him with a Willys 1938 sedan. He named it 'Wilma'. At the time petrol was rationed, so Laurie still used his bicycle sometimes. This car was replaced in 1951 with an A.40 Countryman van.

In 1949 Laurie visited East Gippsland. He writes in his report, "On my return from the Cann River area, Kalimna and Johnsonville schools were visited, where I had lived the life of a farmer in my earlier life. It was a joy to meet the children of those I had known years ago."

Laurie was invited to visit Alice Springs by Rev CJ King. The three-week visit in June 1951 was paid for by a Christian layman who was keen on a mission being held for the children.

I don't know how he found the time but on 21 May 1952 he married Isobel (Jessie) Kingsley at the Burwood Methodist Church. They had three children between the years of 1953 to 1959.

In The Spectator in 1953, there's an article on the Children's Mission by Rev TM Byard of Traralgon. He writes. "This unusual missionary has no 'special' gifts of song or speech. He has only a transparent love for children, and an unquestionable loyalty to Christ. These fundamentals are supported by an amazing facility to 'handle' children, and a technical inventiveness above the ordinary. His gadgets and models, in fact all of his equipment, are a pleasure to handle and an education to behold. His homemade flannel-graph lessons have to be seen to be believed.” And also, “ ... gentle but firm handling of the children. No pressure, no objectionable over emphasis, just a simple invitation to older children.”⁸

Laurie says in his report in 1953, “If the school is out at play when I arrive, there is generally a rush of children to meet the car, and a chorus of voices to welcome me. In some of the country schools, children have come and waited for my arrival even though the schools were closed and the teacher away, and we have carried on in the schoolyard or shelter shed.”

The October 1959 edition of The Spectator has an article on a Home Mission demonstration held at the Royal Exhibition Building. Laurie had a display set up with some of the aids he used in the classroom, the flannel-graph board, flip sheets, screen projector etc. More than half of his equipment he had made himself.

In each year’s report Laurie recorded the mileage of his car, how many schools he visited, the number of children he saw, the hospitals he visited, the Beach Missions, and Junior Christian Endeavour émeetings he held or attended. He started a children’s library and taught at teachers’ training classes for Sunday School teachers.

Laurie retired when the church decided they could no longer use a Children’s Missioner. Of course, he didn’t really retire. He continued as an independent preacher of no particular church.⁹

He was involved in the Postal Sunday School Movement camps for children. The Methodist Church united with the Presbyterian and Congregational churches for the UCA in 1977. In 1990 he became a member of the Caulfield Evangelical Methodist Church where he became a leader and took church services especially those aimed at children.¹⁰ He also started the Mailbox Club where thousands of children in Australia and from faraway Africa sent in their bible lessons to be corrected and sent back.¹¹

Laurie had taught RI at many schools over a long period of time. At Narre Warren North school his was the longest teaching appointment, visiting the school one day a week for 35 years. His influence on hundreds of children had very beneficial effects.¹² In 1977 he joined in the school’s centenary celebrations by planting a commemorative tree.

Laurie Dyer died on 24 June 2002.

I was lucky enough to have been one of the thousands of children who were taught RI by Pastor Laurie Dyer in the early sixties at Noble Park Primary School. I remember that he was always dressed in a suit and he was a very kind man. He lived in the Noble Park area at the time and us kids would see his blue Kombi van driving around the roads and we would always wave.

When Eileen Durdin asked me to write a piece for Spreading Branches I did some research and really couldn’t find enough material. Then one day in the Lorraine Taylor Research Room, Jane Rivett-Carnac suggested that the Methodist Church might have archives. I found their website and sent off an email to see if they had anything on Laurie Dyer.

About a week later I received an email from Dr Jenny Bars, the archivist for the UCA Synod of Victoria. She sent me a photo of Laurie’s van loaded up with his gear. She said that as the Children’s Missioner, Laurie would have put in a report to the Annual Methodist Conference. They had a complete set of the minutes in their rooms at Serrell Street, Malvern East, which are open on Thursdays.

We quickly arranged a meeting, and Eileen joined me for the visit. We were on the doorstep of UCA Synod at 9.10 am (the traffic held us up a bit). After going through the tomes and scanning the appropriate pages, we finally left at 2 pm. We were really impressed with the rooms and the archives they had. Jenny and her team of volunteers were very helpful. We were given a lovely light filled room to work in and had a coffee break with them. The visit gave me information on his working life with the Methodist Church, but not much on his later life.

I wrote an email to a person who had a family tree up on Ancestry. She replied that her uncle was Laurie Dyer's son, David. David then contacted me and forwarded a document with comments from Des Simmons of the Caulfield Evangelical Methodist Church for Laurie Dyer's memorial service and a four-page eulogy that he had presented at his father's funeral in 2002. Such lovely pieces of writing. It showed the love that the family had for Laurie and how hard he had worked. David has permitted me to use whatever I like from these documents.

Thank you to all who have encouraged and assisted me in writing this article about Pastor Laurie Dyer, a remarkable man.

Sausage Sizzle success

Many thanks to the fourteen members who volunteered to assist with the recent fundraising activity. The sausage sizzle at the Bunnings Clyde North store was a great success – with a clear profit of over $2,000 collected for the group's funds.

Thanks have also been sent to the Coles and Woolworths stores that gave donations towards our purchases of sausages, sauces, drinks, ice, and equipment used on the day. We usually have to spend over $500 for these goods. Bakers Delight, Cranbourne has also been thanked for the donation of 25 loaves of bread. Certificates of Appreciation have been delivered to these businesses.

It seemed to be a long day for the volunteers, but the day was a very rewarding experience for those involved. Lots of conversations with other group members and with our many customers who share in the banter ... and the sausage eating!!!

So, with plans for another sausage sizzle next year already being discussed, all members of our group are encouraged to volunteer for just 2 to 3 hours for a fun experience.

It has made an important contribution to our group's finances so please ...have a go!!!

Any enquiries to our Sausage Sizzle Coordinator, Bob Neal on 0419 103 889.

Again, thanks to the volunteers and check out the photos!!!

We explored the cemetery's fascinating early history, and the lives of residents, who after living in Narre Warren, Lyndhurst, Hallam, Lang Lang and other places, were buried at Dandenong.
